Can you recognize real money from fake ones?
Things to look for are:

1) Color and Color-Shifting Ink:

New bills will have peach, green, and blue colors in addition to the traditional black and green.

2) Security Thread and Watermark.

On a Twenty Dollar Bill, when held to the light, the thread with the words, "USA twenty" and an image of a flag become visible. Under ultraviolet light, this thread will have a green glow.

3) Portrait and Vignette, and Symbols of Freedom

The vignette, or vine leaves, tendril, and grape ornamentation, that surrounded the White House on the back of older twenty-dollar bills have been removed. The front of the bill shows a large blue eagle in the background on the left side.
